

Love is eternal.

October 03, 2019

Jenna

My dear Rock, I am immensely concerned about you! I sent you two emails lately regarding the dream I had about you and the tarot reading I did for you. My dear

Rock

I'm here I'm alive and I love that you are looking for me in the cosmos. I believe you already know so much about me that eons of people have too so said. I know. Okay my Love is an eternal presence. Love will never die. Love always wins.

SIGMA 6 - Dogs (pink floyd)

Sigma 6

Six Sigma is a method that provides organizations tools to improve the capability of their business processes. This increase in performance and decrease in process variation helps lead to defect reduction and improvement in profits, employee morale, and quality of products or services.

I'm still trying to figure out who Floyd is

Which one is Pink?

Can you believe it was I whom asked that to him so long ago at a back stage event?

So do you think you could tell

Heaven from Hell?

Wish you were here.

Was I ever really there?

Was I ever really there? That's a serious question because I remember it. I remember going to heaven I remember being there I still have dreams about being there the mansion the giant church the great feelings the good vibes even when you are there at church it is always a celebration, Praising God is Great!

How can you be baptized and still reject Christ

Alright so, imagine that you were never fortunate enough to get an education and you lived your whole life in sin, up to the point in time when you thought it would be a good idea to kill yourself because that is just how stupid you were. Right? Then by some type of miracle, you just so happened to live and not die by killing your self. So you saw it as a miracle and the only person you can equate a miracle to is Jesus. So then you go get baptized and accept Jesus into your heart, only your whole life you knew nothing more than how to lie cheat and steal, because you don't know any other way to earn money. You're a hustler and all you know to do is swindle people. Well, you got saved so now you think that anything you do will be covered by Jesus, which it is but then you decide that's not enough. And you start to make demands to God that you think He is obligated to oblige you with some form of compensation for accepting Jesus.

I was dead and now I am alive, I was blind and now I see.

It's important to pay close attention to the context of Jesus' statement about this "unpardonable sin." He was speaking specifically about the grumblings of the scribes and Pharisees. After witnessing the power of Christ displayed in the healing of a demon-possessed man, these religious leaders made comments like, "He has Beelzebub,” or “By the ruler of the demons He casts out demons” (see Matthew 12:22-24; Mark 3:22).

In effect, the scribes and Pharisees were rejecting the grace of God revealed in Jesus Christ. They were rejecting it by attributing Jesus’ works to the power of the devil. They weren’t just doubting or even denying the truth. They were maliciously contradicting what they had witnessed with their own eyes. For selfish reasons of their own, they were pretending not to understand something they really did understand. The writer to the Hebrews might have been thinking of them when he spoke about those who have “trampled the Son of God underfoot ... and insulted the Spirit of grace” (Hebrews 10:29). Their proud and high-minded attitude was exactly the opposite of yours.

The sin of “blaspheming the Holy Spirit,” then, is essentially the sin of rejecting Christ.

What’s more, the “unpardonable” nature of this sin has less to do with punishment than it does with the hardening effect of the sin itself. By persistently rejecting God’s free gift of salvation in Jesus, the sinner sears his conscience and stiffens his neck. Eventually he gets to the place where genuine repentance is no longer possible. It would be fair to say that this stubborn and unrepentant attitude is the chief mark of true “blasphemy against the Holy Spirit.” That’s why we feel certain that people like you cannot possibly be guilty of this offense. If you’re afraid that you may have offended God without realizing it, it’s obvious that your heart is in the right place.
