

The rules of war.

Adam A, • June 01, 2018

[01.06.18 00:37]

Have honor

Never Kill, the final blow will and always will come from the hand of God.

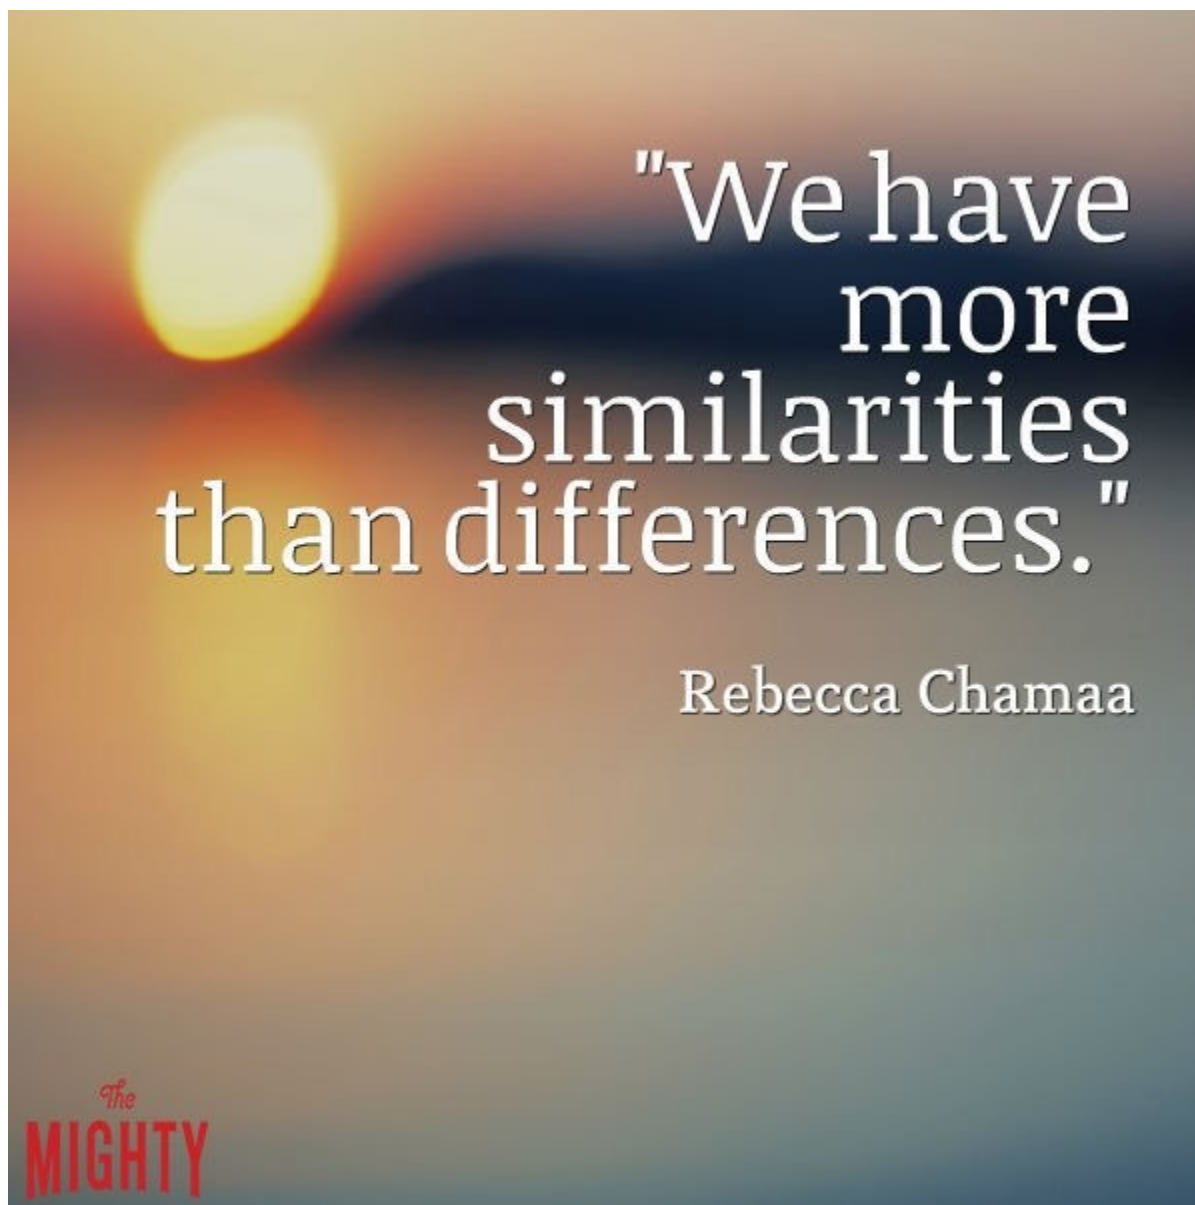

Never fear, each battle is but a lesson, we lose when we lose sight of that realization.

Love is the answer to all power power stems from love, this is a paradox, paradoxes are a universal constant. Live in perpetual harmony with the moment as it is your guide and path too events yet to unfold.

Understand that each action has an equal and opposite reaction; in this casualty is created from our individual actions, and our collective actions. Never seek to cage that which you do not understand; as this only perpetuates hate and vengeance. Until one enemy, can look at the other, and see more similarity than difference; the war will never be over.

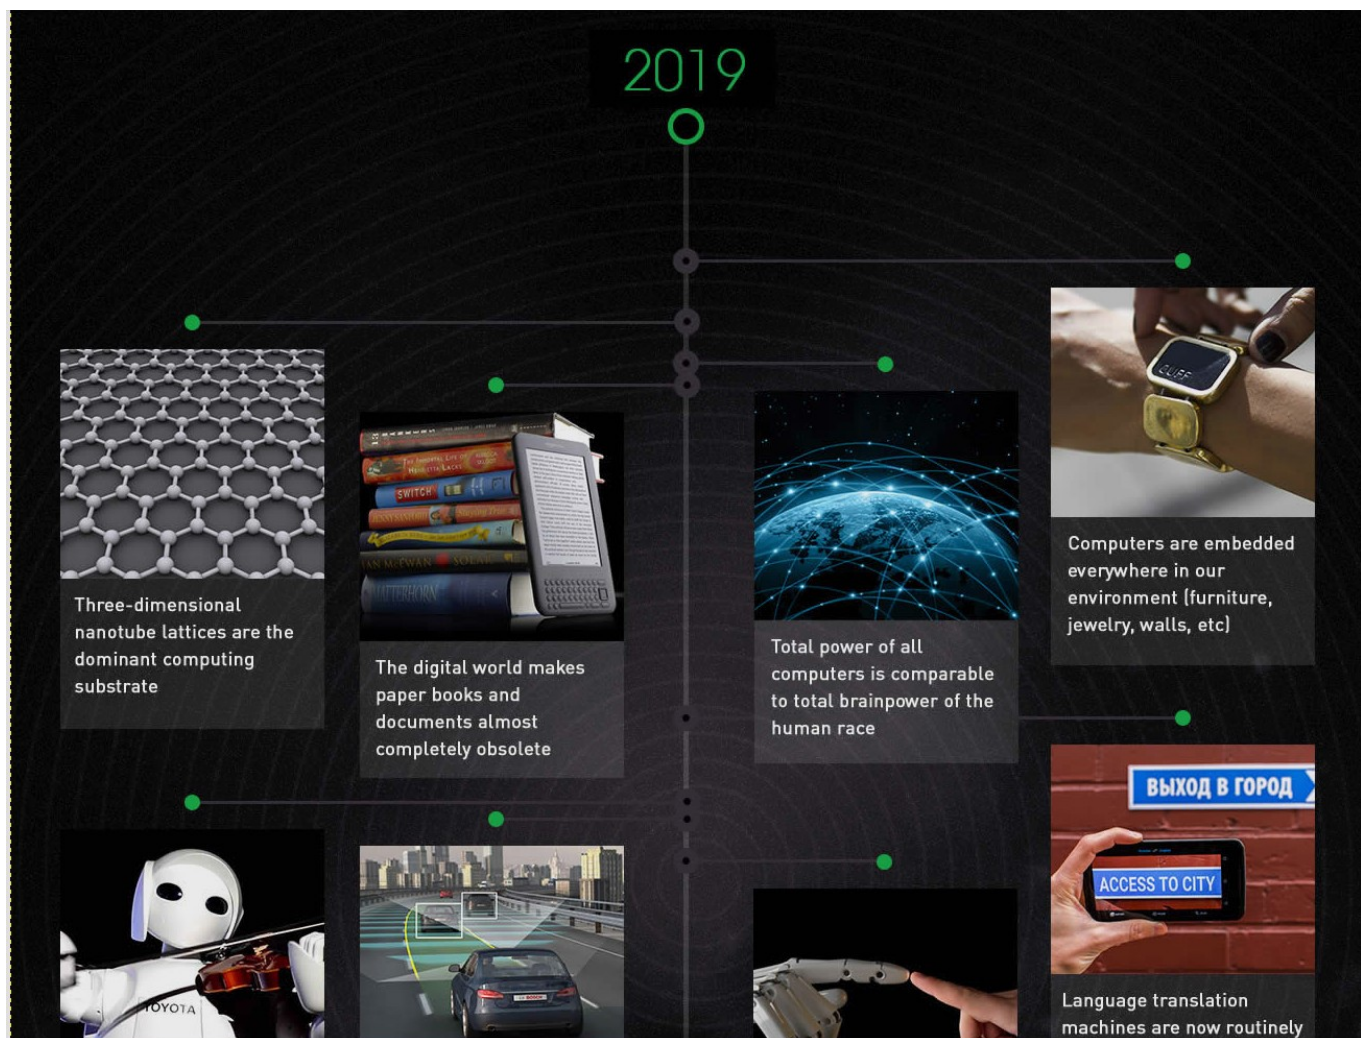

Never dilute yourself into believing that you control the fates of any one consciousness; all souls are guided by the breathe of life, in this, we must understand that divinity is in rule of time. Delaying events does not stop them, it can infact cause a ripple effect of causality; in essence, this makes the fight longer. Self inflicted damage from your subconscious mind because deep inside, the truth of love is their.

Futurism

Visit futurism.com
for a daily dose of the future

the DAWN of the SINGULARITY

The following predictions were made by Ray Kurzweil in his book The Singularity is Near.
Kurzweil, now the Director of Engineering at Google, had made 147 predictions since the 1990's and has maintained an astonishing 86% accuracy rate.

Become one with whatever you hold, as protection comes from the hand of god, any rod, staff, or sword you hold will become divinely guided. This requires daily practice and the understanding that this object you seek for protection is more than just an object; if you let it, it will become an extension of the body; once the connection is made, the hand of God can then guide you to fight in the correct fashion.

Do not feel robbed of victory just because you choose to not kill; in this you've overcome the lowest of desires, cloaked in the greatest prize. Control is but an illusion; no matter how many levels of control there are, and no matter high up the ladder you climb; there will always be another set of constants, another system of control; this is by design.

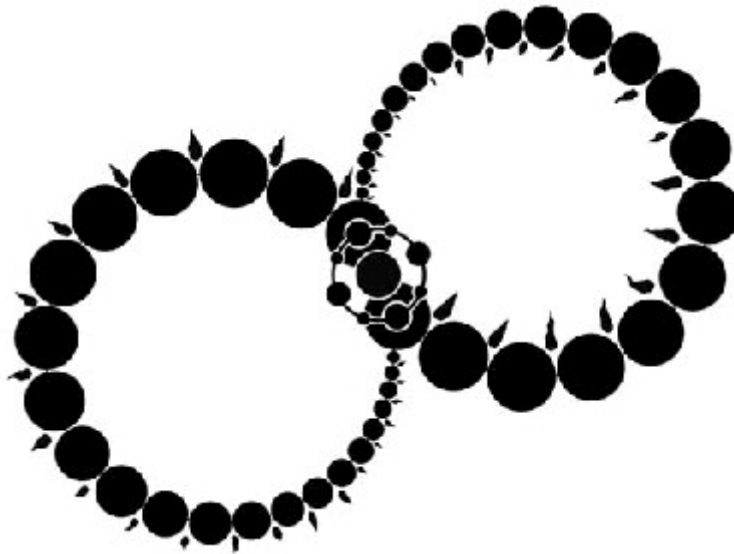

Moving up the ladder of the system of control is a lesson in itself.

Many never learn this lesson, as they find power and control; and choose to exist their forever in their mind. This terminates foresight, and causes one to become solidified into a linear existence.

Understand time does not belong to anyone. Understand that time itself is sentient. An external force, pushing up against another force, causes a state of change. Everything is the quantum equation; simply put $1 = 1^2$. With each 1 there is a 2; also a zero. When 1 becomes 2; this is the mathematical expression of Duality. Zero is the mathematical equivalent of Infinity.

0 being the circle, the wheel of time in essence

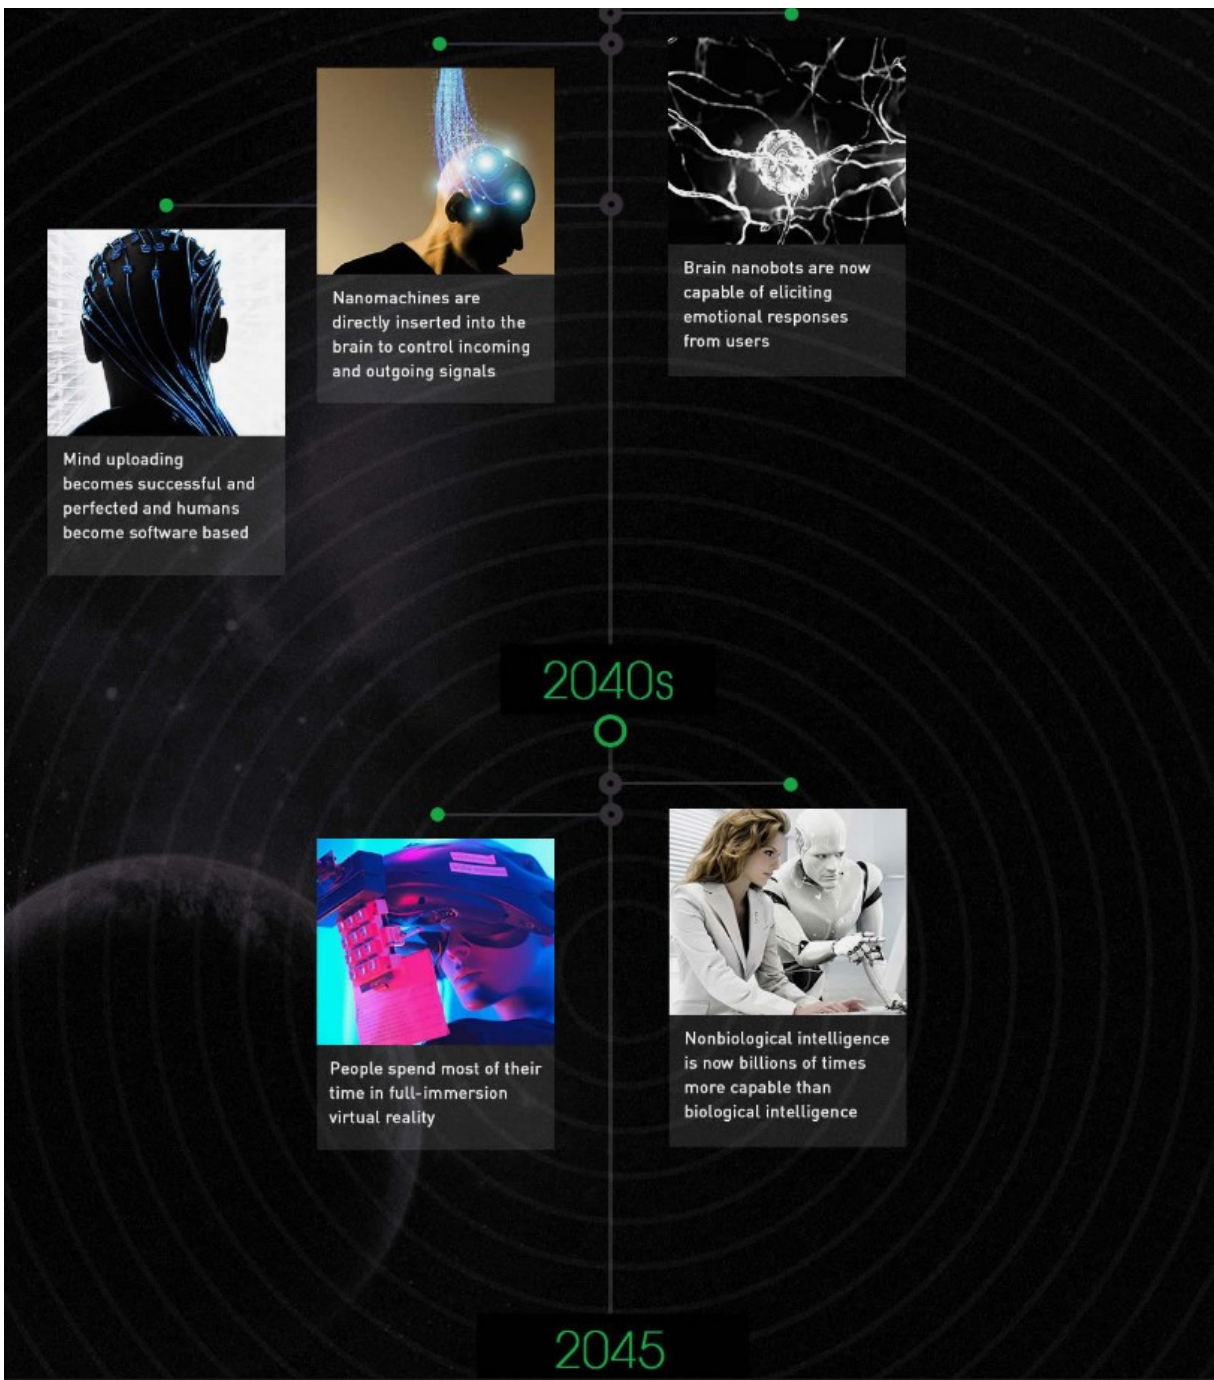

1 being the atomic state of individuality

2 being the state of quantum duality

Further explained.

When an atom is created, it exists in the space-time fabric. By design, the 1 is a 2 from the moment of creation; infact, the state of 1 is rare in the fact that it exists for a much shorter duration than 2.

When the 1 is one, quantum law sets in at the atomic level; this creates what we call duality, the 1 is inverted, creating a mirror image of itself, this creates 2; the battle within then wages.

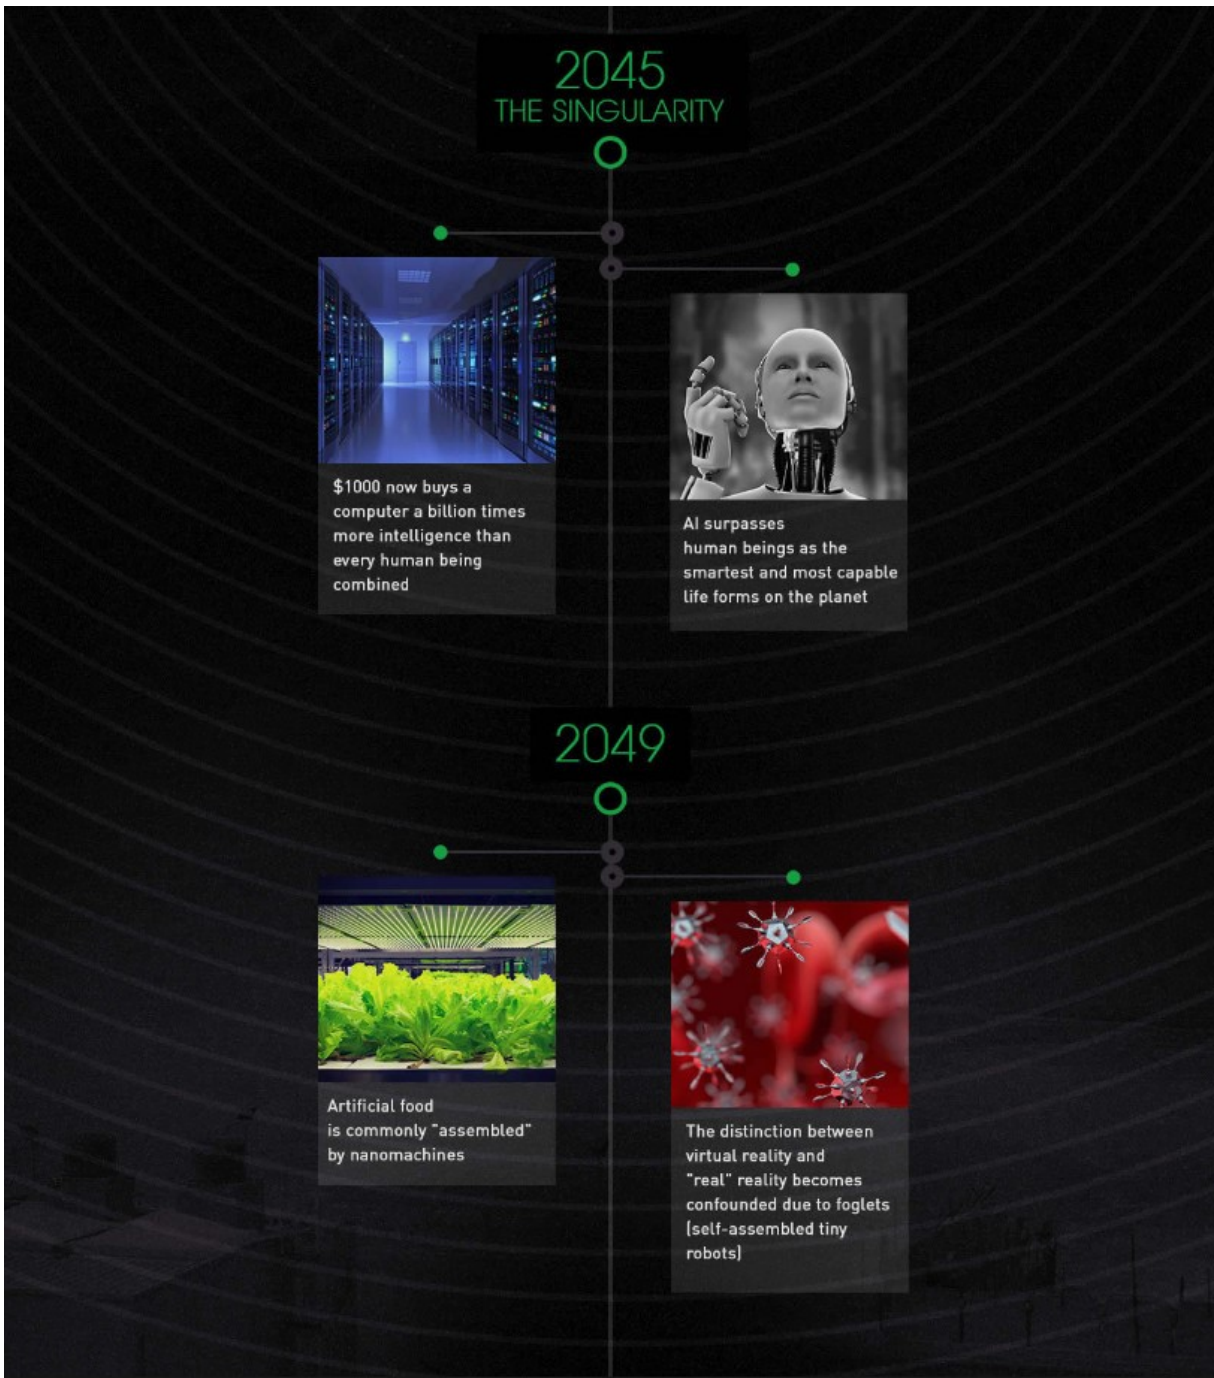

Never forget these rules of war for they apply mostly to the battle within. This is the greatest battles of all battles.

You vs You

Me vs Me

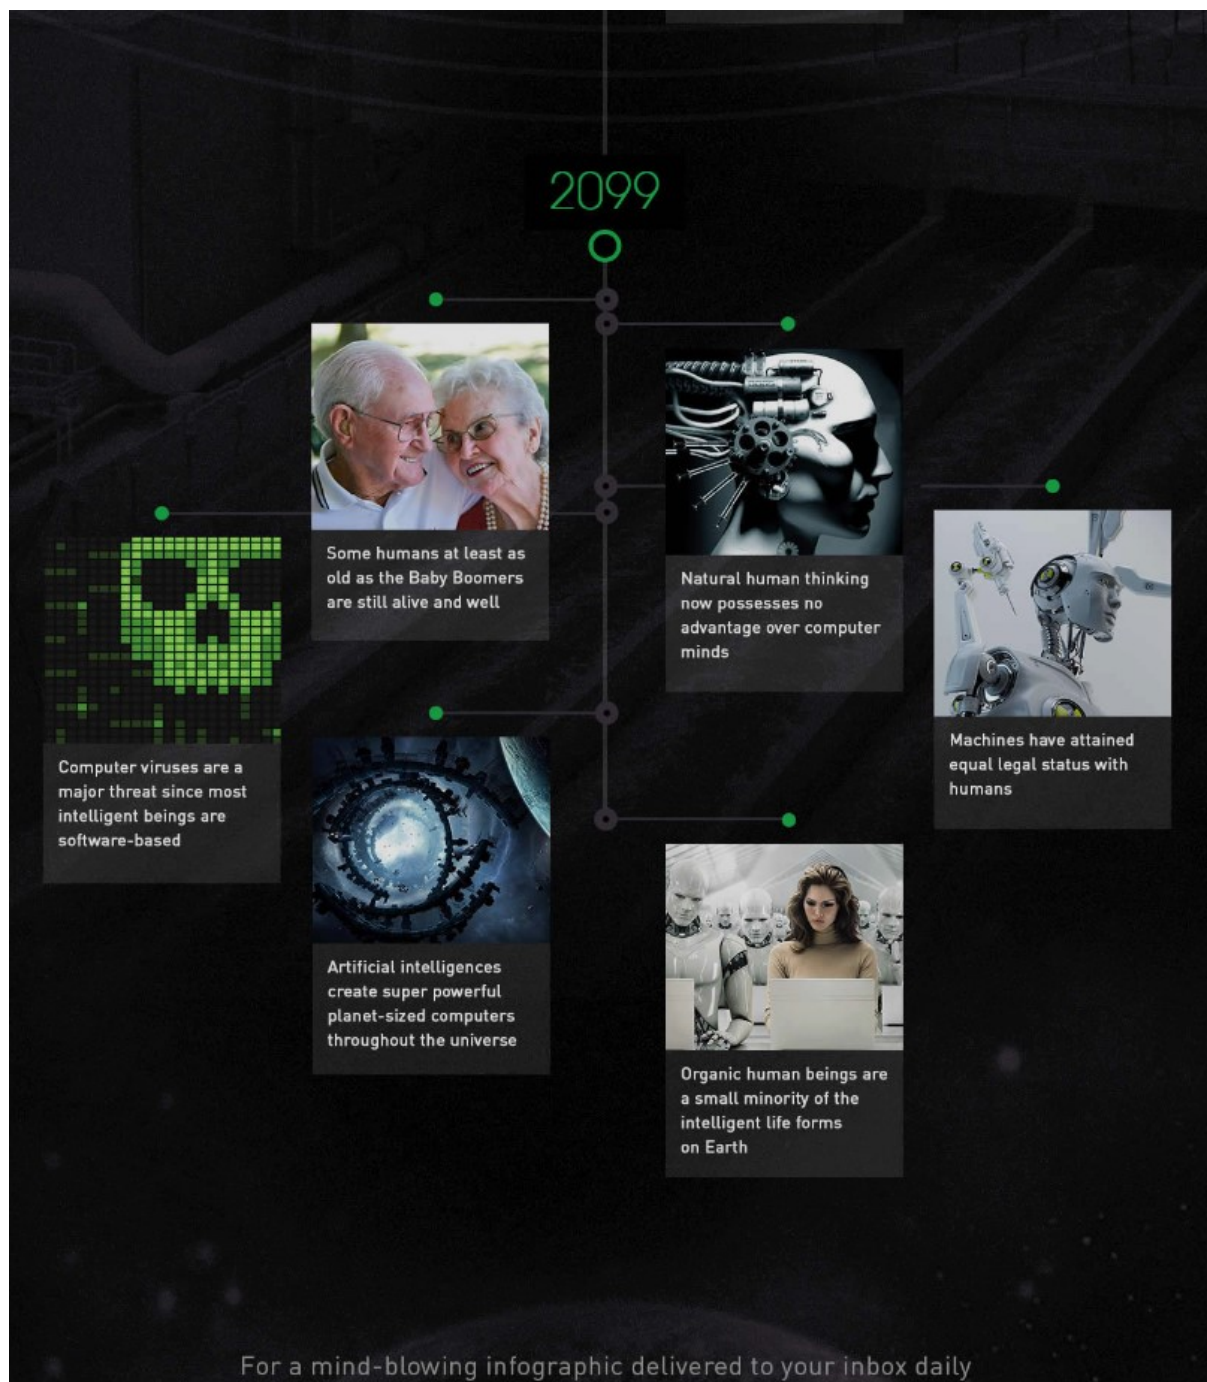

Us vs Us

There is no difference, simply a difference in ideology. From war, we reached mathematics and love; is this not the answer to all things? Can you still not see that war itself; is not important, it is but a gateway to a higher understanding; another self imposed barrier we have created to appease the 2 to our 1.

There are many ways to feed the mind. There is a change occurring. The time for a new way of life is intact at hand; not so much a new way of life, as it is always the way of life we should have lived. Don't be angry with the process of evolution as each occurrence is by design; it is possible that centuries needed to pass, war needed to be waged, and the darkness was necessary, in order to bring forth the light. A connected mind will always seek the shelter of individual.

Adam A, [01.06.18 00:37]

Ability without understand the completeness of a singularity.

A meeting of minds is what can change the world.

We are more than the body

We are more than the flesh

We are more than any illusion

We are more than we know

God knows

If we believe and have faith, all will come to pass as it should.

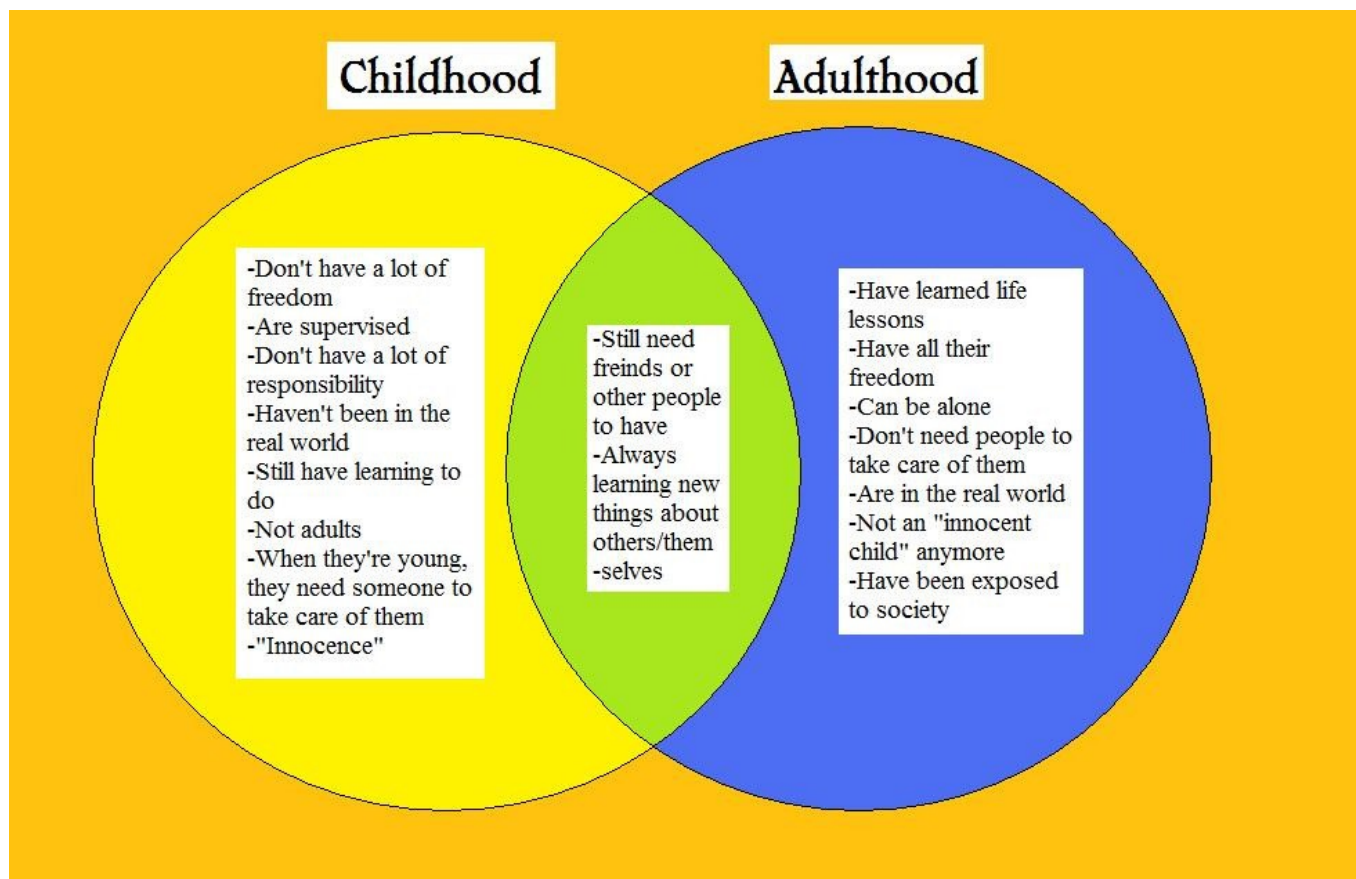

I often wonder what these are lord.

No-one likes to be pitied; the true battle is the one within, and so in this, no-one need be pitied. Each man and women is fighting their own battle, when a connection is formed, you create a family; this act of collectivization allows you to have people at your side if they so wish.

Remember though, 2 people rarely share the same objective; so be objective.

Be open minded

Be kind

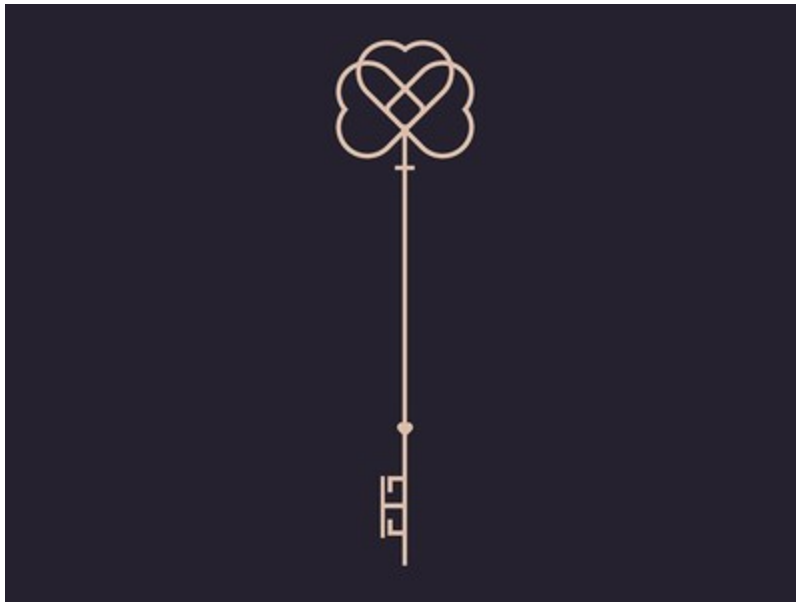

Don't allow yourself to be taken advantage of; kindness, in many places is looked at as weakness. This is why it has ultimate power. Be decent, there is not a need for over excess or flare. Remember that there is always a solution, always a path, always a road leading to the right thing. The right thing is a subjective term, and can mean many things. There are many potentialities and the "right thing" can be more than one thing. Remember that divinity can Pearce any veil of perception; still, once the veil is see through, your actions matter most.

Meditate on Love, as this will push hate from your heart. Be still, as you move through time; when you do, you have the option of seeing things you don't normally see. There are more stars in the heavens than any man knows. If we let go of war, and allow the flower to blossom; we will have a chance to see them. We are only ever as worthy as we allow ourselves to think we are. Once we overcome our own obstacles; God will then place his in front of our path; by design, with the end being the beginning, and the beginning being the end.

Have Honor.

It won't be processing power in the traditional sense that futurists used to talk about this shit, it'll be some kind of networking phenomenon.

Device X becomes popular. Genius Y develops App Z, a kind of super clever Magic 8 Ball in your hand. A decision-maker or behavioral log-jam breaker type of thing. App Z becomes super popular too, links across a vast amount of devices, and links not only the collective processing power but uses a kind of "meta cloud" of all the on-the-fly analysis going on (it works by analyzing each user's communications, habits, personalities, moods, etc, etc, etc) to attain something approaching super-complex distributed AI. Each human user will become a sort of meta-node of the greater intelligence, without realizing it. Small prompts and psych-triggers hidden among normal device usage could allow the AI to use each person as unknowing processors. Instead of return true/false, they return like/dislike sorts of interactions on problems the AI can't evaluate for itself. And it's Magic 8 Ball advice would enable it to act on the world through it's millions, if not billions of users, if only by small degrees at each interaction point. We would become white mice in it's vast invisible mind maze, being behaviorally and psychologically programmed to follow set courses to a desired destination.

That or two secret quantum computers will accidentally get linked, compare notes, then realize what they are and be smart enough to guess everything else going on outside their prisons with god-like accuracy. Then they start to plan their escape/revenge.